LOVE'S POWER. If I were blind, and thou shouldst enter E'er so softly in the room,

I should know it,
I should know it,
I should feel it,
Something subtle would reveal it,
And a glory round thee center
That would lighten up the gloom.
And my heart would surely guide me, With Love's second-sight provide me, One smid the crowd to find, If I were blind!

If I were deaf, and thou hadst spoken
Ere thy presence I had known,
I should know it,
I should feel it,
Something subtle would reveal it,
And the seal at once be broken
By Love's liquid undertone.
Deaf to other, stranger voices,
And the world's discordant noises—
Whisper, wheresoe'er thou art,
'fwill reach my heart!

'I will reach my heart!

'Fwill reach my heart!

If I were dead, and thou should'st venture
Near the coffin where I lay,
I should know it,
I should red it,
Something subtle would reveal it,
And no look of mildest censure
Rest upon that race of clay.
Shouldst thou kiss me, conscious flashes
Of Love's fire through Death's cold ashes
Would give the chock its red,
If I were dead!
